In 1924 she was united in marriage with George Stellwagen. To this union one daughter Georgianna was born.

Tinley Woman's Club Art Exhibit Very Interesting

One of the most outstanding meetings of the year of the Tinley Park Woman's Club was held last Wednesday afternoon in the M. E. church when Mrs. Wm. Funk and Mrs. Carl Winsor Art and Music chairmen, had charge of the meeting.

Through the efforts of Mrs. Funk, a wonderful display of art in many of its forms was prepared. The church was transformed into an art gallery. Among the display was a sort of a mural, extending across the front of the room. This was in seven sections, each one being about three by four feet in size, painted in colors by the 7th and 8th grade pupils of the Fort Dearborn public school, Chicago, of which Mrs. Art Schoenbeck of Tinley Park, is teacher. The stories depicted in this collection were, "Westward Migration," "John Paul Jones," "Transportation" and "Washington at Valley Forge".

The primary, second and third grade pupils of the Tinley Park public school had a splendid display of artwork with art colored paper cut to show forth signs of spring, birds and also a scene of the Alaskan country, also designs cut with paper. Ribbons of blue, red, yellow and white were placed on these by Mrs. Funk, who judged them according to their value etc. This work was done under the supervision of the teachers, Miss Kinsman, Miss Stole, Miss Morningstar and Miss Nelson.

Mrs. Selma Duff had a number of plaques, in oil painting, which she had painted. Another lovely picture was painted in oil, by Mrs. Henry Wyman. Henry Boldt, Tinley Park's professional window trimmer, etc., had a number of paintings, among which was one he painted of himself by looking into a mirror.

Mrs. Wm. Funk exhibited a picture of red roses which she painted in water color when she was 14 years old. It would compare favorably with most any painting in that line done by a mature artist.

A small box made entirely of matches, requiring 141 of them, stained, and made by Edwin Hug when he was seven years old, was exhibited on a large display table.

Other exhibits in this table were: six linen napkins, over 70 years old, in the corner of each was a drawing done with pen and ink, by the great grandmother of Mrs. Chas. Crist; two images carved by hand in wood, of two players in the Passion Play at Oberamgau, Bavaria; Miss Esther Harcourt had a number of articles which she did in plastic work; and Mrs. Frank Baldwin exhibited a number of woodcraft articles, which she made, very lovely in gay colors and shapes.

Many hand painted dishes, tea sets, etc., were also displayed making a most interesting collection.

Added to the setting were the beautiful new electric lights in the church, which were much admired.

Pays Election Bet In Shorts Pushing Victor In 'Barrow

An election bet placed Mokena on the map this week. The reason for all this publicity was a daring and odd election bet made during the recent Frankfort township election when Albert Hentsch made a bet with Geo. Bennett, both of Mokena, that if Emil Cappel won the election for the office of highway commissioner, he would appear in public in his shorts and give Bennett a wheel barrow ride from Morry's Tavern, across from the Rock Island depot, to the Village hall and back again.

When the election returns Tuesday night, showed that Cappel was the victor, Hentsch and Bennett made arrangements to have the bet carried out as originally agreed, and set Wednesday evening at 6 o'clock as the date and time.

The news of this odd election bet was noised all over the countryside and a big crowd of people came from nearby towns and farms to witness the performance.

At the appointed time Hentsch appeared in his shorts, wearing a hat and shoes and soxes with a large sign, "I Lost" and Bennett also appeared, ready for his wheel barrow ride. Heading the procession was Clarence Werner, with a bass drum carrying a sign, "I Lost". As the procession started the crowd cheered.

Photographers of the Chicago Daily Times were present and took pictures of them.

Gilbert Hurley acted as referee and according to the rules agreed upon, for every time Hentsch dumped Bennett out of the wheel barrow, he was obliged to retrace the ground a certain number of paces.

In spite of the chilly wind and his scant attire, Hentsch did not seem to mind the cold, as he had a pretty warm job trundling his load up and down the street.

It is understood that another bet is in the hatching, regarding the out-come of the Mokena mayoralty race in which the loser is supposed to sit on top of the village water tower, but the names of the betters have not been disclosed as yet.

CRASHES IN TRUCK NEAR ORLAND PARK

Believed to have fallen asleep at the wheel of his automobile Saturday noon, Albert Luke, 27 years old of New Lenox, was seriously injured when the car smashed into a milk truck on the Wolf road near the Emil Doctor farm south of Orland near the Will-Cook county line.

Suffering crushing injuries to the chest and severe cuts on the head, Luke was taken to Silver Cross hospital, Joliet. Apparently he was thrown against the wheel of his machine with such force that the wheel was snapped off.

Luke, an amateur aviator employed in Chicago was on his way home from work when the accident happened.

Frankfort Wins Tinley Basketball Tournament

The Tinley Park Triangle Club Lightweight Tournament was won by Frankfort, Sunday afternoon with able assistance from several players. They showed their superiority in the final game by defeating Lemont to the tune of 40 to 26.

You should have seen the fast scoring that Lemont did when Frankfort put in the home town boys in the last few minutes, but the extra players had run up such a big lead which was quite difficult to overcome.

Every credit should be given to Lemont for playing "heart and soul" against great odds.

The consolation game between Steger and Manhattan proved to be a real thriller, for until the last two minutes, it was anyone's game, when all of a sudden, Steger got hot, and the final score was 38 to 27 with Steger winning.

The show game of the tournament was the Triangle Club. They had to battle a six-minute overtime period when Steger sank a long shot, which automatically ended the game, with Steger the winner. The score, 23 to 21.

Frankfort had little difficulty winning from Oak Lawn Thursday and they then took on Steger Friday night in the semi-finals, working quite hard and ending up the winners.

Lemont playing Midlothian on Wednesday came thru with flying colors to enter the semi-finals against Manhattan whom they barely defeated in an exciting game. The score being 14 to 12.

The Girls Tournament started Wednesday night with the Harvey Merchants defeating Mokena by a comfortable score of 20 to 14. That same night the Blue Island St. Benedict's defeated the Triangle Club by a score of 16 to 11. These two games were very well played from both sides.

BREVITIES

The Socialist party will hold its state convention in Decatur May 11 and 12, State Secretary Joe G. Brincar announced.

Allen Padfield, thirty-five, a relief worker, was killed by a cave-in of dirt while working on a bridge abutment west of Nashville.

Another dynamite blast was exploded in the Illinois miners' controversy. The blast was in the air shaft of a Peabody Coal company mine near Riverton.

Walter Calhoun, twenty-seven, Anna garage worker, was found dead from monoxide gas poisoning. He went to sleep in a car which he left running.

Counterfeit $10 bills appeared in Benton trade channels and also are being circulated in West Frankfort and other southern Illinois cities, it was reported.

John Hauff, Chicago gunman, who pleaded guilty to the murder of J. Charles Bundy, cashier of the Leonore (Ill.) State bank, following an attempted holdup last January, was sentenced to death by Judge Robert E. Larkin.

Sangamon County Sheriff Luke K. Gaul offered a $50 reward for arrest and conviction of the thief who stole his office's automobile. A coach was taken from a parking space on the courthouse square marked "for sheriff's cars only."

Continuing the shakeup at the Joliet penitentiaries, three new gatekeepers were appointed. John T. Kiekels of Joliet was named as superintendent of the honor farm, succeeding John Peterson. The new gatekeepers are Frank L. Dillon of Wenona, Henry A. Klein of Decatur and Harold J. Lee of DeKalb.

Approval of a contract for road improvements near Valler, Franklin county, was announced by the state department of public works and buildings, division of highways. Ernst Lieberman, chief highway engineer, described the project as 3,304 miles of 30-foot earth roadbed in section 21A-MFT. The contract was awarded to E. A. Midgett of Christopher, Ill., and the project is to cost $14,604.44.

Following numerous inquiries about farm products offered by agents purporting to represent the state department of agriculture, Walter W. McLaughlin, director, announced the department does not have any such agents or solicitors. Most of the inquiries have been about poultry remedies, equipment and sprays which the salesmen or agents advertise as authorized by the department of agriculture.

Declaring it "extremely unwise and hazardous to abandon the principle of adequately protecting public funds," Gov. Henry Horner sent a message to the house of representatives vetoing House Bill No. 238 providing for reduction in the amount of bond required of county collectors to secure taxes paid to them. The measure was sponsored by Representative John F. Pettit (Dem.), Batavia; Frank A. McCarthy (Rep.), Elgin, and John M. Peppers (Rep.), Aurora.

Additional revenue for the Illinois department of conservation, without any increase in fishing, hunting and trapping license fees for sportsmen of the state, are sought in a bill to be presented to the Fifty-ninth general assembly proposing cuts in commissions on the sale of licenses now received by city, county, village and township clerks, Charles F. Thompson, director of the department, announced. The bill also proposes to permit sale of licenses by the conservation department and by persons approved and authorized by the department as well as by city, county, village and township clerks. Instead of the flat fees authorized now by the existing fishing, hunting and trapping codes, the new bill, if passed, would cut the commissions of city, county, village and township clerks to 5 per cent of the gross cost. The department and other persons selling the licenses would not receive the commission under the proposed new law.

The state division of highways, department of public works and buildings, approved a county contract for the construction of 2,222 miles of pavement near Whitaker in Kankakee county at a cost of $8,695.10. Approval of a project which would rehabilitate 200 families on a tract of from 500 to 600 acres in St. Clair county, near Belleville, was recommended by the board of directors of the Illinois Rural Rehabilitation corporation meeting at Springfield. At the same time, the board received a report from the Illinois emergency relief commission that the proposed Greene county orchard project be rejected. The Belleville plan originally called for options on 5,280 acres of land which would provide support for 3,500 families, but the report of a special committee recommended that the project be reduced to the 500 or 600-acre tract and that options for that portion be continued. Final approval of the project by federal authorities at Washington is necessary.

While Dr. W. E. Allen was performing an emergency operation at St. Anthony's hospital, Rock Hills, his locker was rifled and his billfold, which he had left in his trousers pocket, was emptied of $400.

A $250,000 fire destroyed the rectifying plant of the Penn-Maryland company at Peoria, sending plumes of blue flame 50 to 100 feet in the air as 200,000 gallons of whisky exploded. More than 1,000,000 bottles and an undetermined amount of revenue stamps were believed destroyed, as was all the plant's equipment. The plant was one of the five largest in the country.

Lesson for April 7

THE HEAVENLY FATHER

LESSON TEXT—John 14:8-24.

GOLDEN TEXT—Like as a father pitieth his children, so the Lord pitieth them that fear him. Psalm 103:13.

PRIMARY TOPIC—The Heavenly Father.

JUNIOR TOPIC—The Heavenly Father.

INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—Why We Call God Father.

YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—The Fatherhood of God.

The aim in the lessons of this quarter is to place before the pupils of the Sunday school some of the great doctrines of the Christian faith, as set forth in God's Word, with their practical application to the common relations of life.

I. Who is the Heavenly Father (Gen. 1:1).

He is the almighty God who created the universe (Ps. 90:2). He was before all things. God is the infinite and perfect Spirit in whom we live and move and have our being. He is omnipotent, omniscient, and omnipresent. He was not only before all things, but the cause of all things.

II. What the Heavenly Father Does.

1. He created the universe (Gen. 1:1; cf. vv. 26, 27). The universe came into being by the will and act of the personal Being called God. Man himself is a creation of God.

2. He has provided salvation for lost men (1 John 4:9). He gave his only Son, that whosoever believeth in him might live through him (John 3:16).

3. He preserves us (Ps. 103:1-14). The preserving mercy of God embraces the following gracious beneficent acts:

a. He forgives all our iniquities (v. 3). This he is able to do because of the righteous provision he made for sin in the atonement wrought out by Jesus Christ.

b. He heals all our diseases (v. 3). This healing refers to the body and the soul. He first renovates man's moral nature and then his physical nature.

c. He redeems the life from destruction (v. 4). Redemption implies the payment of all demands against the debtor.

d. He satisfies the mouth (v. 5). God satisfies all legitimate desires, so that youth is renewed like the eagles. In redemption man's original capacities are restored to their native vigor.

e. He executes righteousness and judgment (vv. 6-12). The wrongs of life are righted and man is thus relieved of the burdens which they entail.

f. He pities his children (vv. 13, 14). The pity of an earthly father is but a faint suggestion of the sympathetic compassion of the heavenly Father.

4. He chastens his children (Heb. 12:5-11).

a. The fact (vv. 5, 6). Every one who is God's spiritual child experiences chastening, an unmistakable evidence of sonship.

b. How it should be received (vv. 6-8). It is the token of his love (v. 6).

c. The purpose of (vv. 9-11). It is to bring the child into subjection to induce reverence (v. 9). It is to produce holiness (v. 10). It is to develop fruits of righteousness (v. 11).

5. He cares for his children (Matt. 6:11, 25). The child of God who has come to know his heavenly Father as the almighty Creator and Preserver, whose very essential being is love, will trust the Father for daily bread without anxiety or fear.

III. The Heavenly Father Revealed in Jesus Christ (John 14:8, 9).

The supreme purpose of the coming of the Son of God was to reveal God (John 1:8). Only a being of God's essential nature could reveal him. Jesus Christ became man in order that he might reveal God to man. Only the one who knows Jesus Christ knows God.

IV. How Men Come to Know God as the Father (John 3:3-6).

It is through regeneration. The new birth is absolutely essential to a knowledge of God as the Father. We are children of God by faith in Jesus Christ (Gal. 3:26).

V. Our Responsibility to the Heavenly Father (Matt. 6:24-34).

The true child who has come to know his Father

1. Will give him undivided affection (v. 24). The child of God makes the unequivocal choice between the heavenly Father and the world.

2. He will not be anxious about food and clothing, as stated above.

3. He will diligently seek the kingdom of God and his righteousness (vv. 33, 34). He will subordinate temporal things to the things of the Spirit. This is not a warning against legitimate forethought but against anxious worry.

Fight Your Habits

The most truly religious thing that a man can do is to fight his way through habits and deficiencies, and back to pure, manlike elements in his nature, which are the ineffaceable traces of the Divine workmanship, and alone really worth fighting for.—Weiss.

Immortality

When, by nobler culture, by purer experience, by breathing the air of a higher duty, vitality at length creeps into the soul, the instincts of immortality will wake within us.

Dental Hygiene

The Road to Health

By DR. R. ALLEN GRIFFITH

CLEAN TEETH PREVENT DISEASE

IF THE average citizen appreciated the importance of the mouth as a breeding place for bacteria, benevolent and malevolent; how constantly germs and their products are taken into the digestive tract, and how widespread and serious are the consequences of such intake, they would habitually have their mouth inspected for cleanliness.

Every time the mouth is washed, the teeth scraped, cleaned, polished and brushed, the infecting power of the oral cavity is reduced. This is a simple, plain, easily understood, reasonable proposition and every human being should believe it.

An unclean mouth is not only a source of infection to the individual, but is a danger to those with whom the individual comes in contact. This unwholesomeness of the teeth and gums may cause the individual no discomfort and may take years to produce its effects on the system, yet cases are on record in which oral sepsis has produced septicaemia and death in forty-eight hours.

Thorough prophylaxis is the only effective method of combating these conditions, depending on the degree to which it is practiced. When this is neglected, the result is disastrous to the teeth and the whole organism.

People neglect their teeth thinking that no matter how bad they get, modern dentistry can replace them. No false tooth has ever been made that can perform the same function as the natural tooth. It is a poor substitute at best. Too frequently they aggravate the very condition they are assumed to cure or relieve and become food and bacterial traps and irritate both hard and soft tissues.

It has been said that gold and other banded crowns have caused more deaths than all the wars of the world. A crowned tooth is not a crown of glory but may cover a multitude of germs. Tartar, bulging fillings, ill-fitting crowns and bridges, impinging upon the gums and periodontal membrane surrounding the tooth, set up an irritation much like a splinter in the flesh. This breaks the tissue down into pus, just as the splinter would. The pus is then absorbed by the mucous membrane and swept into the stomach to poison the blood.

Cleanliness is the foundation upon which surgical success rests. In the mouth cleanliness should be a necessary preliminary to either medical or surgical treatment but it is seldom demanded or enforced.

BACTERIA AND THE MOUTH

WHAT is known about the so-called nonpathogenic micro-organisms is so meager that there is considerable doubt about their harmlessness.

However useful outside the mouth these micro-organisms may be for producing fermentation or disintegration, they are neither desirable nor necessary for effecting these changes within the body. Nature has provided us with suitable chemical digestive ferments.

It is believed that micro-organisms now classed as pathogenic (disease-producing) evolved from or degenerated from harmless forefathers.

In our bodies, with almost no evidence of it, are living and growing evil germs too numerous to mention. Often they are temporarily doing no more harm than a fish in a brook. We have in the blood stream the wandering leucocytes with almost the power of animals to pass through the walls of the blood vessels, forage for material dangerous to life and return to the blood stream. In many of us a culture made from the blood will show the presence of some kind of micro-organisms.

Although there are few places in the body in which man quite regularly carries bacteria, they are always in the mouth, about the teeth, in pyorrhea pockets, in cavities in the teeth, in alveolar abscess and in buried crypts in the tonsils. These micro-organisms are divided into two classes—pathogenic (disease-producing) and nonpathogenic.

The gastric juices destroy some of the bacteria taken into the stomach, but not all. Some may pass into the blood by the chyle duct, more commonly they probably enter the portal circulation and are destroyed by the liver.

Bacteria to take effect in a certain location must have a suitable environment, just as seeds blown by the wind will germinate only in fertile soil. The acidity, the oxygen tension, the condition of the general health or local injury may be factors in their growth. Some will only grow in a certain place, as poliomyelitis in the brain and spinal cord, others in the sheaths of nerves, the first causing acute conditions, self-limited, and the latter, recurring neuritis. We thus have rheumatism, appendicitis, gall bladder inflammations, ulcers of the stomach, valvular lesions of the heart—in fact, nearly all the general and local diseases of which we have knowledge are thus produced.

Diseases of middle life are microbes, of a chronic recurrent character. They are carried into the blood stream from a few foci, the mouth being the greatest danger. Keep your mouth clean and free from as much infection as possible and it will improve your health and lengthen your life.

FEW WILL WORRY
OVER CHANGE IN
NAMES OF CITIES

Athens is no more. What was Athens is Athens. What was Piraeus is Piraeus; what was Patras has become Patra. These are some of changes of official spelling of Greek cities ordered by our Post Office department at the request of the Greek government. The new orthography will be used hereafter in all bulletins of the government; but one gravely doubts that any American traveler will tell his friends that he intends to debark at Piraeus for a visit to Athens!

Comparatively few great European cities have the same names at home and in English-speaking lands. Paris and Berlin are notable exceptions. In Italy Rome is Roma, Naples is Napoli, Florence is Firenze, Vienna is Wien, Lisbon is Lisboa, Brussels is Bruxelles, Copenhagen is Kjobenhavn. The Hague is either s'Gravenhage or Den Haag.

The arbitrary inconsistency in dealing with royal Christian names is not as weird as it was when there were more kings, but it is still inexplicable. Vittoria Emmanuele of Italy is always Victor Emmanuel, but for no reason at all Carol and Mihai of Rumania are not generally and properly Anglicized into Charles and Michael. There was no fixed rule about the last German emperor; he was Wilhelm about as frequently as William. But two kings of Greece were always George and never Georgios.

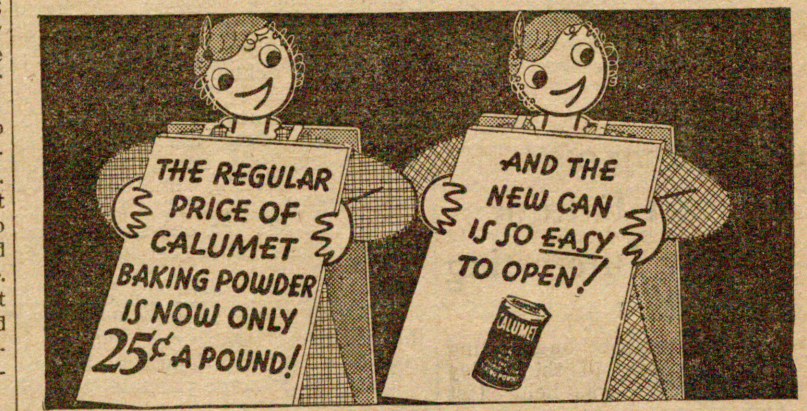

As a matter of fact people who fuss about the spelling of names worry about something worth no worry. When Kemal commands us to call it Ankara instead of Angora we pay no heed; but we have tamely accepted Istanbul in place of Constantinople. As for Athens, one's guess is that it is too old to get a new name, and that Athens will be seen not elsewhere than in the official bulletins.—Washington Star.

Firestone
TIRES CAN HOLD THE DEEP, HEAVY
GROUND GRIP TREAD TO THE TIRE
BODY, WITHSTANDING TERRIFIC PULLS AND STRAINS AND GIVING MORE
TRACTION THAN ANY TIRE EVER MADE

REALIZING the need for better traction on soft ground and country roads, Firestone engineers designed and built a new type of tire with the deepest, heaviest, most rugged tread ever known.

You do not need chains with this remarkable new Ground Grip Tire, because the rugged tread is scientifically designed for self-cleaning and will not clog, even in mud or clay. Firestone can give you a tread like this because of two patented construction features.

One is the two extra layers of Gum-Dipped cords placed between the heavy tread and the tire body, binding the tread and body together in one unit of great strength.

The other is Gum-Dipping, by which process every high stretch cord in the tire body is soaked in liquid rubber, preventing friction and giving the cord body extra strength to withstand the extreme flexing at low air pressures.

For your spring and summer plowing and general farm use you cannot afford to be without these new Ground Grip Tires on your cars, trucks, tractors and farm equipment. See your nearest Firestone Service Store, tire dealer or implement dealer today. Easy terms can be arranged. There is a complete line of Firestone tires, tubes and auto supplies for your every farm need.

Screen Star Builds Miniature Doll House

THE doll house of Colleen Moore, screen star, is a fairy castle of incomparable beauty—a work of love which has made the world's most exquisite and costly toy a veritable shrine to the little god of miniature. Created by a score of famous artisans over a period of nine years and at a cost of $435,000, the enchanted capital of fairyland soon is to be booked on a world tour for millions to see. Proceeds from exhibitions throughout the United States and abroad will be donated to hospitals for crippled children. By this means more than $1,000,000 will be realized from showings which will require a three-year schedule of bookings in every city in the United States and all foreign capitals. Constructed of aluminum and copper with fantastic angles and sky-sweeping turrets and steeples, no semblance of architectural convention is found in this giant abode of little people. Resting on the summit of a rugged precipice, the castle, which is nine feet wide and nine feet long, rises fourteen feet into the air and weighs approximately 6,000 pounds. The house, excepting rivets, contains more than 200,000 pieces, being a mechanical marvel of unprecedented intricacy, yet practicability. Equipped throughout with mechanical wonders in miniature, the house boasts of a solid golden cathedral organ standing nearly fifteen inches high, which plays through an elaborate electrical system via remote control. Miss Moore's famous doll house also has the world's smallest electric light bulbs, each being the size of a grain of wheat and imbedded in sockets with the circumference of pinheads, in a golden chandelier, strung with glittering, pear-shaped diamonds. The doll house, wired with an electrical system requiring months of labor and experimentation, is controlled with a series of transformers and switches for each room. All lighting, with the exception of flood-lighting in the gardens, is indirect, with more than 400 small-watt bulbs being utilized in the system. Water tanks on turrets and in the dungeons of the castle feed live fountains in the kitchen, garden and bathrooms. The tanks, on emptying, play beautiful chimes in the steeples every ten minutes automatically. Operated by electricity, a magic feathered nightingale perches on a lavender glass tree in the Garden of Aladdin and sings full-throated, joyful tunes. The doll's house contains eleven rooms, Aladdin's Magic garden and Noah's entrance hall. The furnishings throughout the house represent years of effort in collecting in every part of the world. They are in scale an inch to the foot and are probably the most priceless in existence. Photograph shows the prince's bedroom in Colleen Moore's doll house.

WHAT DANNY MEADOW MOUSE DID

TO GRANDFATHER FROG, watching from the safety of the Smiling Pool, it seemed that Danny Meadow Mouse hadn't the least chance in the world. There he was on the bank of the Smiling Pool with water in front of him and Reddy Fox creeping up right behind him. To try to run back would be to run right into Reddy's mouth. There wasn't a place for Danny to hide.

"I told Danny he was foolish to come over here," muttered Grandfather Frog.

So Danny Swam With All His Might for the Other Bank of the Smiling Pool.

Grandfather Frog. "I'm rather fond of the little fellow, and I hate to think that I shall never see him again."

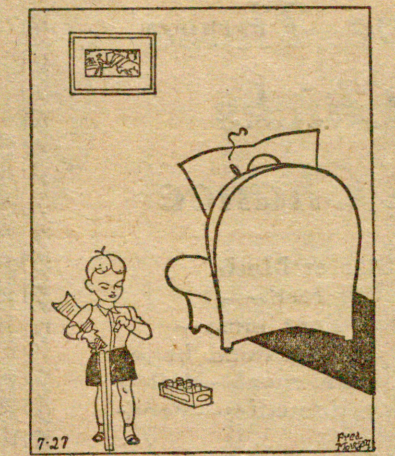

Grandfather Frog saw Reddy start to spring on Danny Meadow Mouse and closed his big, goggle eyes so that he would not see the dreadful end of Danny. He expected to hear Danny's last despairing squeak, but instead he heard a splash. Grandfather Frog's big, goggle eyes flew open, and then he gave a grunt of surprise. On the bank where Danny had been a second before was Reddy Fox, and if ever there was an angry and disappointed fox, that one was Reddy. And there in the Smiling Pool itself was Danny Meadow Mouse swimming straight out toward the middle as if he were quite as much at home in the water as his big cousin, Jerry Muskrat himself.

From the way he was headed it was quite clear that Danny intended to swim across the Smiling Pool to the other bank. "Chugurum!" exclaimed Grandfather Frog. "Bravo, Danny Meadow Mouse! Bravo!"

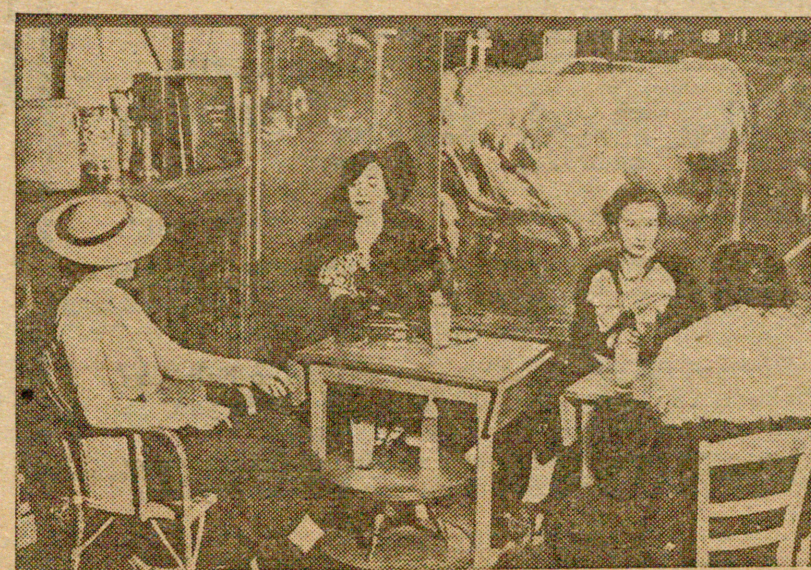

Danny made no reply. He was too busy. He couldn't waste his breath talking. Besides, he was afraid he would swallow some water and choke. So he kept right on swimming as hard as ever he could. The truth is, Danny was in a hurry to reach the other bank. While he wasn't afraid of the water, he was afraid of certain folks who live in the water. He knew that Snapper, the great, big Snapping Turtle lives in the Smiling Pool, and that nothing would make him happier than a fat meadow mouse for his dinner. Then Danny couldn't help but think of Billy Mink. If Billy Mink should happen along, well, Danny didn't like to

QUESTION BOX by ED WYNN, The Perfect Fool

Dear Mr. Wynn:

I am a man twenty-four years of age and extremely bashful. I am madly in love with a girl my own age and would like to marry her, but I am too bashful to even broach the subject. I will never get over my bashfulness, and do not know what to do. Can you give me an idea that will help me?

Yours truly,

O. B. O'GOSH.

Answer: The next time you call on her get the conversation switched around to the different kinds of drinks there are in the world. Then each of you take turns asking each other which drink you prefer. Now you're all set. When she asks you: "Do you like tea," turn to her and say: "Yes, but I like the next letter better."

Dear Mr. Wynn:

I went to the circus yesterday, and in one of the side shows there was a skeleton of a horse. The man said, it was the skeleton of a horse that was ridden by "Richard the Third." I am a student of Shakespeare and I was surprised at this, as I always understood he didn't have a horse; in fact, he offered his kingdom for a horse. What do you think of the situation?

Yours truly,

ELLA PHANT.

Answer: Very simple. The skeleton you saw is of the horse he offered his kingdom for.

Dear Mr. Wynn:

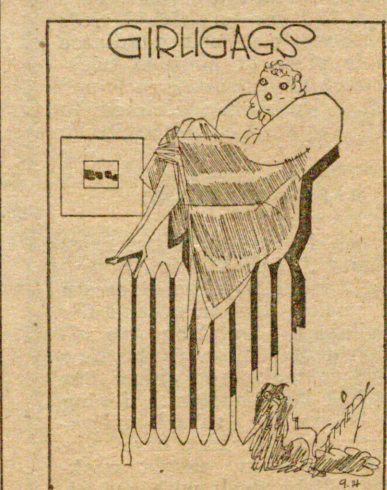

I am a young and rather attractive looking blond girl. I am in love and go with a handsome boy about my own age. He is a professional baseball player. My mother says it is wrong for me to go with a baseball player, as he is in a wicked business. Is this true?

Sincerely,

A. FOUL.

Answer: Tell your mother baseball is not wicked. If she looks in the Bible she will read: "Rebecca took a pitcher to the well."

RECALLING TRAGEDY

A small group of men whose forefathers were persecuted for their religious beliefs in the Seventeenth century meet once a month in East End, London, according to the American Express company. They are the descendants of the Huguenots who fled to England after the edict of Nantes had been revoked in 1685. Of all the thousands who took sanctuary in England, not more than 150 have preserved their Huguenot individuality. Only three of the original friendly societies remain today, the Normans, the Lincolns and the Protestant refugees from High and Low Normandy.

Be Reasonable

Marriage is not a failure if too much is not expected of it.

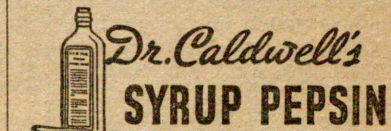

The "liquid test"

...it ENDS bowel worries for many people

This is a test that tells you whether the system needs a cathartic change. If you have constant sluggish spells or bilious attacks, and laxatives seem to make things worse, it would be wise to try this:

Stop all use of any laxative that does not encourage variation from a "fixed dose" (which may be entirely too large a dose for your individual need). Use instead, a liquid laxative that you can measure and regulate as to dose. As necessary to repeat, take smaller doses, less and less often, until the bowels are moving without any help at all.

Doctors use liquid laxatives, and a properly prepared liquid laxative, containing natural laxative agents like senna and cascara is a joy and a comfort; a real help in establishing regularity. Ask your doctor about this! (Doctors use liquid laxatives.) You can get Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, which is a most dependable liquid laxative, at any drug store.

SOMETHING ABOUT THE SOLDIERS "BONUS"

OMAHA, NEB.—The 152 homeless World War Veterans who are inmates, at public expense of the Federal Emergency Administration transient shelter here have presented an argument in favor of immediate payment of the Adjusted Service Certificates which is well nigh unanswerable.

In an appeal addressed "To the Taxpayers of America, care of the President of the United States," the unhappy men who once offered their lives for their country ask that the government discharge its debt to them and all of their comrades in order that they might use this money to start them anew in lives of productivity and thereby again become self-sustaining.

A copy of the appeal was received by Sam Reynolds, chairman of the National Finance Committee of The American Legion, and immediately was made public as a forceful argument in support of the Legion's stand for immediate payment. It follows in full:

"This statement is addressed to you, our benefactors by the 152 war veterans who now find themselves inmates of the FERA Transient Shelter at Omaha, Neb.

"You taxpayers are today providing us with food and shelter, for which we are duly grateful. You would rather that we were not here, and God knows we would rather not be here.

"We do not presume to place our wisdom above yours, but we do have time to think—probably more time than you do. We want you to know what we are thinking.

"Each one of us holds your note in the sum of approximately $450 apiece, on the average. Some refer to these notes as "The Bonus." You, yourselves, call them "Adjusted Compensation." But the name is immaterial.

"According to the letter of the bond your notes are not due for some ten years. Also, according to the letter of the bond they were given us in order to adjust our compensation for services which we rendered you seventeen years ago. Therefore, the bond asks us to wait twenty-seven years to collect twenty years' interest. But let us waive that.

"Today you shelter and feed us, and by so doing you pile up an additional and burdensome governmental debt. By paying us the face of these notes now, even though they are not due, you would not only retire an obligation which you must some day meet, but you would relieve yourselves of the present burden which our care is causing you.

"Tens of thousands of veterans are recipients of your relief. The immediate payment of these notes would put them on their own, and you would be surprised at how far they could and would make that money go.

"These are the thoughts we are thinking. To feed and house a man to whom you owe money just does not make sense to us. As a simple business proposition it is ridiculous. As a kindergarten lesson in economy it is asinine."

Hon. Henry Horner, Governor of Illinois: "The part the American Legion has played and will continue to play in bringing about national recovery will be as vividly remembered as the glorious deeds its members played during the war."

ON VEGETABLE DIET

Los Angeles—Mounting meat prices rallied 10,000 embattled housewives to a butchers boycott under the banner of "Thrifty". Unless the packers and retailers reduce their prices, all Los Angeles will adopt a vegetarian diet, according to Mrs. Margaret M. Matteson, mild real estate agent and aunt of Doris Duke Crowell, "world's richest girl." Meatless menus were broadcast over the city by house-to-house canvass, radio and telephone. Strangely enough, Los Angeles except for pork products, was better off than other sections.

He firmly declined to join FDIC, required of all banks by law.

TRIANGLE GIRLS BASKETBALL TEAM HAS TOUGH LUCK

The Triangle Girls did not have such a successful season this year as they had last year, not because they are not good, but because of tough luck. Here are some of the "tough luck points": First, their coach, Joe Hirtzer, had to resign, thus bringing on another coach who changed their style of playing. Second, Doris Miller, was forced to stay out of the games for two or three weeks due to injuries from an accident on the way home from a former basketball game. She also had the flu. Third, Ruth Freitag decided to get the measles so she had to stay out for a couple of weeks. Fourth, Florence Witt came home with a black eye received in a basket ball game but had the courage to keep on and not quitting. Anyone having sense should know that a girl cannot play her usual brand of basketball with a black eye (still she played very good). Fifth, at tournament time "prosperity" knocked at the door of Erna Schanz and she could not be present at the tournament game. Sixth: "Prosperity" also knocked at the door of Florence Witt, who also got a job and could not be present at the tournament game. Florence resigned for the "job" reason before the tournament so her fine record still stands.

These are some good reasons why the "Triangle Girls" did not have such a prosperous team this season. Next year let's hope that they will not have so much "tough luck".

Very Interesting

Mrs. Chas. Nielsen, the president, called the meeting to order at 1:30 o'clock. Two new members were welcomed into the club, Mrs. Alice Anderson and Mrs. L. G. Bruder of Mokena.

Mrs. O. Ebenhack reported a bake, flower, plant and seed sale to be held in the building just west of the Vogt Department store, on Saturday April 20.

Mrs. F. Baldwin announced the annual meeting of the Third district on Tuesday April 9th at 55th St. and Western Ave., in Gage Park with that club being hostess.

Mrs. Bartlett announced a Style and Home Decoration Show, to be held in the auditorium of the school Monday, April 22 at 2 p. m. Miss Littlejohn of the Chicago American will be the speaker and director of the show.

Mrs. Wm. Funk, introduced Mrs. August Portz, third district art chairman, who brought with her many fine paintings of artists and spoke about each one. The artists whose work she exhibited were: Mrs. Dolly Helweg; Mrs. Francis Rice Brubecker; Mrs. Elizabeth Merrill Ford; Mrs. Stewart Clayburn and Mrs. Katherine Foster Clarke.

Mrs. Carl Winsor introduced Mrs. J. Seegar, third district music chairman, who spoke briefly on music and of several writers of well known songs.

Mrs. Winsor presented a splendid music program which was greatly appreciated.

It was surely a pleasure to have Mr. Roman Gonia, Tinley Park's congenial druggist, present, and who, in his splendid voluminous bass voice sang: "A Perfect Day", "Invictus", "When Big Brofundo Sang Low C", and "Old Black Joe." Mrs. Carl Panknin accompanied him on the piano.

Mrs. Ruth Freitag sang, "My Wild Irish Rose". Mrs. Winsor gave short readings of music as found in Ireland, Italy, Wales and Bohemia. Mrs. A. Ceithamel sang a folk song from each of these countries, accompanied by Mrs. Winsor.

The Woman's Club quartet sang, "Coming Thru the Rye" and "A Song of India", accompanied by Mrs. Panknin on the piano and Mr. Kososki on the violin.

Mrs. Kososki, local Rock Island R. R. Agent, played two violin solos, "Polish Dance" and "A Garden Dance". It was very fine that these two local business men left their work and gave of their talent to this program.

Tea was served in the basement with Mrs. Nielsen and Mrs. Portz pouring.

Cook County's

School Expenditures

Cook county's net expenditure for schools for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1931, totaled $100,749,141. Three years later, in 1934, it spent $7,089,864. In other words Cook county's investment in education was $43,659,277 less in 1934 than in 1931.

Similar comparison reveals that the state of Illinois distributed as its share toward the upkeep of its schools $13,053,051 in 1931 but only $7,739,722 in 1934.

By simple arithmetic we find that if Cook county got its just and proportionate share of the state distributive school fund in 1934 the state stood a bit less than 7.7 per cent of its educational burden. The rest, or 92.3 per cent, was thrown back upon the local tax payers.

Peach Salads

GINGER PEACH SALAD: Drain the peach halves from half a No. 2½ can and lay in lettuce leaves on salad plates. Mash one cream cheese, add two tablespoons mayonnaise, and cream together. Crumble three gingersnaps and mix in carefully. Pile this mixture on top of the peaches, and chill. Garnish with the rest of three-fourths cup mayonnaise. Serves four.

Peach and Cottage Cheese Salad: Have everything very cold. Drain four peach halves (half a No. 2 can), and place, cut side up, in lettuce leaves. Pile one-half cup cottage cheese on top, put a dab of English Chutney (you will need two tablespoons of it) on top of each, and garnish with four tablespoons mayonnaise. Serves four.

These Are Decorative

Jack-O-Lantern Salad: Chill twelve small-sized canned peach halves, drain and slightly scoop out cavities to make holes larger. Mix one-half cup halved, seeded white grapes and one-half cup chopped salted almonds with enough mayonnaise to moisten. Stuff cavities with this and then press the two halves together. Place each stuffed peach in a wreath of shredded lettuce. Make a Jack-o-lantern face on each with bits and strips of date. Makes six salads.

Five Fruit Salad: Drain a No. 2 can peach halves, a No. 2 can grapefruit and a 10-ounce can figs, and chill. Remove all the skin and fibre from two oranges, and cut in thin circles or in sections. Cut two bananas in fingers. Place a peach half in the center of a bed of lettuce and fill the cavity with cream mayonnaise to which has been added bits of preserved ginger and chopped salted almonds. Arrange the other fruits in groups around the peach. Serves eight.

News From Springfield

By Bernice T. Van der Vries,
Representative 7th District

When the Legislature reconvenes after its spring recess, it should settle down for a long period of hard work. If every bill which has been introduced receives a hearing in committee and those reported out of committee go through the procedure of three hearings in the House, it is safe to predict that the session would last for many months. There are enough controversial bills already seething in the cauldron to consume thousands of argumentative words.

Very soon there will be hearings on the new insurance code, which like every document of its type cannot please every one. The new code has been drafted in the Insurance Department which has for its director Ernest Palmer. On the commission were Senators Barbour and Williams and Representatives Fitzgerald, Adamowski and G. J. Johnson. Hearings have been held for some months with representative insurance groups, and the hearings on the bill which embodies the code will be held in the two legislative houses soon. The code if adopted will be a forward step for Illinois from the insurance standpoint.

The Motor Driver's License Bill and the Financial Responsibility Bill which accompanies it is being studied in a sub-committee of the Judiciary Committee. Rep. David Swanson of Chicago is the Chairman. The bill has the endorsement of many civic groups and thousands of individuals. Opposition seems to be definite in some downstate quarters.

The bills for Permanent Registration of voters in Chicago and cities under the same election act and the bills for a Corrupt Practices Act will have hearing next week. These bills have the backing of the same groups of citizens as they have for their purpose the elimination of election frauds and the buying of votes.

The coming week will undoubtedly bring out more discussions of relief measures. From metropolitan newspaper reports, the committee from the House which went to Washington to interview Federal Administrator Hopkins were left "waiting at the church" and were only able to discuss with his assistants the method by which Illinois is assessed for relief projects. This will not satisfy the members of the Assembly who are interested in cutting relief costs and in some system which will at the same time give satisfactory assistance to the worthy, but will force back to work those who are satisfied with a dole. Funds will soon have to be appropriated for further relief work and there should be an honest effort to hold down taxes and prevent increases in taxation.

Now Is The Time To Purchase An Electrical Ice Box

The sure way to secure the biggest value for your money in buying an electric refrigerator is to buy a 1935 Frigidaire. And right now is an ideal time by the way to see what Frigidaire is offering in its new 1935 models. They are now on display at Clarence Beagley's, Orland Park. Drop in at any time, the sooner the better, and see the beautiful new 1935 Frigidaires. And above all get the amazing facts about Frigidaire's latest development, the wonderful Super Freezer. It is a part of every Frigidaire from the largest down to the smallest, and constitutes one of the biggest forward steps by Frigidaire in years, because it's a basic change. The Super Freezer means better refrigeration than ever before, faster freezing and lower operating cost. It makes possible a complete refrigeration service.

Don't fail to see these new Frigidaires and get the whole story of Frigidaire's Super Freezer an exclusive Frigidaire development.

Remember a special showing is at the Clarence Beagley Electric Shop, in Orland Park, Illinois.

Will Co., School Expenditures Over Two Million

Will county's net expenditure for schools for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1931, totaled $2,572,417. Three years later, in 1934, it spent $1,806,777. In other words Will county's investment in education was $765,640 less in 1934 than in 1931.

Similar comparison reveals that the state of Illinois distributed as its share toward the upkeep of its schools $13,053,051 in 1931 but only $7,739,722 in 1934.

By simple arithmetic we find that if Will county got its just and proportionate share of the state distributive school fund in 1934 the state stood a bit less than 7.7 per cent of its educational burden. The rest, or 92.3 percent, was thrown back upon the local tax payers.

Numerous other states, especially those that have recently reorganized and modernized their school systems handle the financing of their education in a far different manner. Examples follow:

Delaware, as a state, bears 88.8% of the cost of its schools; California, 63.5%; North Carolina, 55 percent;

West Virginia, 53.2%; Washington, 60.0 percent; Utah, 41.1 percent; Georgia, 39.6%; Indiana, 36.1 percent; Florida, 34.6 percent; New York, 33.5%; Mississippi, 32.9 percent; Virginia, 31.8%; Michigan, 31.8 percent; Alabama, 31.2%; and Kentucky, 29.2 percent.

Arizona, Maryland, Minnesota, Nevada, Ohio, South Carolina, all carry more than 20% of the educational burden. Mostly these state moneys are raised by other than property taxes.

Illinois, in the last few years, has developed large new sources of taxation. Its sales tax revenues are now running more than $40,000,000 a year. Its gasoline tax is running about $31,000,000 a year. Its automobile license fees are bringing in about $18,000,000 a year. Its beverage and liquor taxes are good for about $7,000,000 and are increasing. That's about $96,000,000 annually. Other comparatively new sources of non-property taxes will bring the whole up more than $100,000,000 a year.

These figures are not theory. They stand proved. Five years ago, for the calendar year ending Dec. 31, 1930, the revenues for the state of Illinois were $113,673,464.23. For the calendar year ending Dec. 31, 1934, they were $211,617,911.63. Governor Henry Horner recently said the school system in Illinois is archaic and in need of immediate reform. Educators and students of education generally agree with him. Kentucky, Indiana and other mid-western states have recently remodeled their school systems to their great advancement and advantage.

The present Illinois Legislature is being asked to pass legislation which would shift a greater share of the burden of carrying on Illinois schools to the state. This proposal would increase the state distributive fund to approximately $30,000,000. It is now $10,500,000 but, due to legislative errors or oversight, is $7,000,000 in default for the present biennium.

Illinois formerly shouldered a much larger share of the educational burden than it has in recent years. Back in 1856 the state carried 65.8% of the burden; in 1866 it carried 17.2%; in 1876 it carried 11.8% and in 1920 only 8.4 percent. In other words the state has been steadily shifting the educational burden to the shoulders of the small tax payer in the individual school district.

Hard roads came only when the state picked up the burden and went to work on a state-wide highways plan. Left to the townships we would never have had any satisfactory highway program or good roads. Only the state can levy non-property taxes in satisfactory or sufficient measure to gain results.

Leaving the support of the schools to individual districts works gross inequalities. There are school districts in Illinois whose assessable property values are so low that, taxing to the legal limit, they cannot raise $150 a year to support their schools.

Should the present legislature appropriate $30,000,000 a year, for the schools out of non-property tax revenues, Illinois would still rank low among the states in percentage of the school-burden carried. That would mean less than 30 percent of the required amount. But it would lift an enormous weight from the backs of the small property tax payers.

It would also guarantee the efficient conduct of many schools now facing a crack-up.

SCHOOL NEWS

The Primary room is attractively decorated with Easter pictures.

Mrs. Ferguson's room is decorated with bird houses, all which are appropriate for the month of April.

The pupils of Mrs. Ferguson's room have a reading chart. For every ten books read they will receive a small seal which will be placed on the chart.

The annual Spring Festival will be presented April 26. The operetta which they are presenting is "The Land Where Dreams Come True". The festival is under the able direction of Mrs. Ferguson and Miss Doig.

Gordon Benson was the winner of the "mibs" tournament at Mokena. He will play in the tournament at Joliet, Saturday at 1:30 P. M. The winner of that game will be a guest of the sponsors at a baseball game at Chicago.

The Bel Canto Glee Club presented their operetta, "Miss Caruthers Returns" to an appreciative audience Friday, March 29. The following is a brief resume of the characters:

Alice Lauffer with her usual dignity played the matronly part of Mrs. Jones exceedingly well.

Margaret Mueller, Mary the maid captured the audience with her dances, antics and songs.

Evelyn Moore, the arrogant niece of Mrs. Jones played her role exceptionally well.

Dorothy Shoenek, the red-headed Irish maid received a place in the hearts of the spectators with her songs and her reminders of Kilarney.

The dances and the solos of the chorus were executed beautifully.

Crop and Feed

Loans Available

Emergency crop and feed loans from the $60,000,000 fund appropriated by Congress will be available within a week to Will County farmers, according to an announcement made the past week by W. L. Myers, governor of the Farm Credit Administration.

As in the past, applications for emergency crop loans will be made to the county crop loan committees. The personnel and location of these committees may be obtained from the county agricultural agent Mr. Leonard W. Braham.

Governor Myers said the emergency crop loans will be made only to farmers who are unable to obtain credit elsewhere for necessary supplies and feed. The size of the loans range from $10 to $500. However, no loan for the growing or harvesting of crops may be made in an amount greater than is actually needed in each case. The fund is appropriated specifically for emergency purposes and Governor Myers pointed out that it must be used to assist the maximum number of such needs.

In Illinois an applicant for $100 or less may apply directly to his local county committee. If an emergency crop loan of more than $100 is needed he must first obtain a statement from the Joliet production credit association showing that the latter has rejected his application for a loan of approximately the same amount. If the application is for a loan to finance fruit or truck crops this statement is required on loans of more than $300.

Furthermore, loans will be made only to applicants who are cooperating directly with the production control program of the Agricultural Adjustment Administration, or who are not proposing to increase their 1935 production in a way detrimental to the program. A statement to this effect is contained in each loan application.

Loans will be made for the purchase of seed and fertilizer, for fallowing, for production and purchase of feed for livestock, but not for the purchase of livestock or machinery, or for the payment of taxes, debts, or interest on debts. Security consists of a first lien on the crops financed or livestock to be fed.

CHOOSE CHICK STARTER WISELY, URGES EXPERT

After the bag is empty what will you have?

"If all folks who raise chicks this year will consider that question carefully before choosing their starting feed, many will be very surprised and gratified to discover how much more they have to show for their investment when the chicks reach six weeks of age," says C. S. Johnson, national authority on poultry feeding and management and head of the poultry department for Purina Mills.

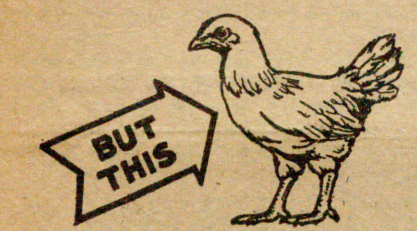

"Most chick feeds look alike at time of purchase," Johnson says. "Many contain the same ingredients. Some even analyze alike. There'll be just as many pounds of feed in one bag as in another. But what a vast difference is seen in the quantity and quality of six weeks' old chicks fed on various rations! In view of such known variations in feeding results it is only fair to one's self, looking out for one's own best interests, to measure the worth of any chick starting feed on the basis of what will be in evidence in number, size, and development of chicks after the bag is empty—after the feed has all been used."

Fifty in the Bag
"This question, 'What will you have after the bag is empty?' may well invoke a counter query: 'How much can I expect? How much should a starting feed accomplish? The answer to this is that today any poultry raiser should be able to count on 50 birds averaging a pound apiece or better from every hundred-pound bag of chick starter, provided he selects a feed with proven ability to produce like that. Records from all parts of the country on a million chicks fed our Startena, show that at 6 weeks the light breeds averaged 17.4 ounces in weight and the heavy breeds 19.2 ounces.

"Yes, one can expect results like that and get them by wisely choosing a starter which is built to do that kind of a job. It is easy to understand why this is possible when one is reminded that Startena is so well balanced and blended for building chick frame, blood, flesh, and feathers, that only 2 pounds of it is required to raise a chick to 6 weeks of age. Ample feeding results there are to verify these figures and to say to anyone who raises chicks: 'Don't be satisfied with any feed which cannot deliver as good results as this.'

"Any way you look at it, differences in the prices of starting feeds are negligible factors compared to results, because a chick eats such a small amount of feed the first six weeks. The slightest difference in results more than offsets any variations in price. For example, if chicks averaged just 2 extra ounces apiece at 6 weeks on one feed as compared with another, that would mean 400 ounces or 25 additional pounds on 200 chicks. This extra weight at 12c a pound for broiler meat would be worth $3.00. Since it takes 400 pounds of feed at 2 pounds per chick to grow 200 chicks to 6 weeks of age, it will be found by dividing 4 into $3.00 that the feed which puts on those extra 25 pounds is worth 75c more per hundred than the other feed. This is on a meat basis alone and does not take into consideration the valuable advantage gained of giving the pullet chicks a better start.

"With only two pounds of feed required to get a chick started right," Johnson says, "the starter that does the best job proves the cheapest!"

Signaling by Drums
In South Africa messages are signaled by means of drums made of bark, the tappings on which can be heard many miles away. It is by this method that the defeat of Sir Redvers Buller at Colenso was made known to natives 60 miles distant in the space of two hours.

Thursday night Steger took a very easy victory from Frankfort, defeating them 29 to 9 with Lorraine Shambo and Jennie Reynolds, both of Steger, starting with 10 and 11 points, respectively.

The Blue Island Vagabonds defeated Lemont by a one-sided score of 20 to 8.
Friday night the Harvey Merchants defeated St. Benedicts of Blue Island in the semi-finals by a large and comfortable score of 30 to 18, automatically entering the Harvey Merchants in the finals which proved to be a thriller from start to finish. The score being 12 to 10 thus entering Steger in the finals.

Sunday, in the finals, Steger took the Harvey Merchants to the tune of 24 to 20, thus winning first place. These two teams were evenly matched. Credit must be given to St. Aubin No. 10, of Harvey Merchants who is a dead eye on long shots. She scored 5 baskets (10 points) and all five baskets being long shots.

From Steger, Lorraine Shambo and Jennie Reynolds again starred, with 11 and 10 points respectively.

Orland R. N. A. Celebrates Birthday

An excellent program followed. Neighbor Harriet Gee sang, "Memories" and Neighbor Pearman, husband of our District Deputy, showed the neighbors "how to pick them up and lay them down" in some old fashioned jigs and reels. Neighbor Mohr and Taylor put on a laughable skit entitled, "Reading the Gossip from the Local Paper", and in which every member present came in for her share of good natured joshing.

A one act playlet, "The Minister's Mistake", was put on by the members of the program committee, Neighbors; Taylor, Mohr and Loebe and proved to be most enjoyable.

While the hall was being arranged for the serving of the refreshments, our musician, Lillian Knox played and the members gathered around the piano and sang many of the old songs. The serving of the refreshments proved to be the crowning gesture in a perfect evening. Chicken salad was the "piece de resistance" and at each table, was a center piece, a reproduction of the floor cloth, done in appropriate colors, by Neighbor Rassmussen. A mammoth birthday cake with 36 candles was the creation of Neighbor Mary Kramer. The refreshment committee, Neighbors Doak, Arnold and Cox certainly "did themselves" proud in their work.

The hall was beautifully and tastefully decorated in purple and white by Neighbors; Taylor, Mohr and Rassmussen.

The Neighbors of Laurel Camp are proud of their 36 years of existence as a constituent camp of the Royal Neighbors of America, and are looking forward to many more successful years to come.

It is strange that an expedition into the earth's interior has never been seriously attempted. If we could sink a shaft only twelve miles into the ground we might strike all the coal and oil that would be needed in millions of years. SANITATION BIG FACTOR IN CARE OF SOW AND PIGS

With new pig crops arriving or on the way, there's something important to be said to every hog man regarding necessary sanitation measures that may help a lot in promoting the well being of the sow and the healthy growth of pigs, according to Walter Reuszer, manager of the hog unit of the Purina Experimental Farm.

"For obvious reasons, I would especially advise the thorough cleaning of farrowing quarters before the sow is brought in," says Reuszer. "These should be scrubbed and disinfected to eliminate as far as possible any danger from infection. A very powerful disinfectant for this purpose is made with a solution of one-sixth pint of Purina cresofec in a gallon of water."

"After this simple precaution, the sow should be prepared for proper farrowing by bringing her into the farrowing pen four or five days in advance. She should then be washed all over with soap and water and her udder disinfected with the one-sixth pint cresofec solution to a gallon of water in order to remove worm eggs and disease germs which might otherwise be present to harm the young pigs. A thorough cleaning the day after farrowing is recommended, with fresh litter supplied.

Move to Pasture
"Ten days to two weeks after farrowing—providing weather permits—the sow and her pigs should be hauled to clean pasture—that is, pasture which has been plowed up and sown to some cover crop since the last batch of pigs was raised there," Reuszer says. "It is advisable to keep the sow and pigs on clean pasture for at least the first four weeks, and for the entire nursing period, if possible. At five to six weeks of age all pigs should be vaccinated."

"Worm control is also an essential factor in hog sanitation. Naturally when a man is feeding wormy pigs he's not making pork. He's feeding worms. But when a pig is kept free from worms all the feed goes to build the hog—and that's where the profit is made. Pigs should be wormed shortly after weaning—at 9 or 10 weeks of age, after they have been on solid feed for a week or two. Then they'll go back on feed quicker. For effective worming, Purina pigswormer is recommended. A patented water gun and jaw spreader, available at any checker-board feed store, will make the worming job quick and easy."

PATTERN 9226

You'll have no moment of dark despair if an old friend comes in to see you unexpectedly and you're dressed in this nicely tailored house frock! For it's especially designed to flatter larger figures, and fashioned along lines as chic as a street or sports frock. The sleeves, cut in one with that pretty, double-pointed yoke, have a little inverted pleat to make them jaunty and oh! so comfortable to work in! And the neat panel at the front sweeps all the way from hem to yoke to give you a long, slim line. If you'd be practical as well as attractive, choose a gaily printed cotton fabric, gingham, percale, lawn or seersucker, as they launder so beautifully and wear so well.

GOLDEN DAWN

SYNOPSIS

Theodore Gatlin adopts a baby, which he names "Penelope," in a final effort to solve his matrimonial troubles. But his wife has never wanted her, and their affairs end in the divorce court. Ten-year-old Penelope is given into the keeping of Mrs. Gatlin. At a baseball game a ball strikes Penelope on the nose. Mrs. Gatlin splits the child to Europe. Gatlin retires from business, while Penelope all his money, and is about to begin a search for his daughter when a motor accident ends his life. Some ten years later, in San Francisco, Stephen Burt, rising young psychiatrist, is presented by Dan McNamara, chief of police, with a new patient, Nance Belden, a girl with a dual personality, for which her "saddle nose" is in part responsible. McNamara does not think she is a criminal and obtains Burt's testimony in court. Lanny, the doctor's office nurse, is also won over. Nance's criminal record outweighs Doctor Burt's explanation of her case and she is sent to San Quentin penitentiary. Lanny visits her and Nance persuades her to smuggle out a letter which a confederate of Nance steals. Nance escapes, although shot, by swimming to a speed-boat manned by friends, and goes to Lanny's apartment. Lanny tells Chief McNamara, who orders her to bring Nance to his apartment.

"Those cops at your house will stick around, Lanny, and when you return they'll want to know where you've been. What are you going to tell them?"

"Tell them nothing. Let those two cops sit in their car in front of my house all night and watch it. What do I care? At least they'll keep burglars away. And when finally they do round me up and waltz me down to central station to be questioned, you'll do the questioning, will you not?"

"Lanny," said Dan McNamara, "if you were a man and on the force I'd make you a detective sergeant. You're a bear-cat, that's what you are. But you smuggled that letter out of San Quentin for Nance and turned it over to Sapphire Susie!"

"Indeed! Well, let me tell you, Dan McNamara, that I'm a respectable woman and I never associate, if I know it, with ladies known to the police by such names."

"Maybe you didn't know it, but you gave Sapphire Susie a lift in your car from the main gate at San Quentin down to Greenbrae. The guard remembers seeing her hanging around the main gate, as if she was waiting for somebody; later she got into a coupe with a middle-aged lady, who looked so respectable he took another look at the pass she had just surrendered to him and remembers that the name on the pass was yours. The pass entitled you to visit Nance Belden. Guards may not remember such incidents until something happens. Then they're fast on their feet, Lanny."

"And who, if you please, is Sapphire Susie?"

"She's did a stretch at San Quentin for blackmail. She was discharged a week before you visited Nance, and before Susie left the Big House, Nance fixed it with her to lend a helping hand. Apparently Nance didn't want to confide the minute details of her plan of escape to Susie. Susie's a swell looking but a little bit dumb—she levied blackmail through the mail, understand, and signed her name, instead of hiring a smart shyster lawyer. So Nance decided to send her written instructions out by you, and Susie agreed to pick you up, pinch the letter and deliver it."

"Dan, I assure you I wasn't in any plot to effect a prison delivery. If I'd thought for an instant I was doing anything wrong—why, Nance told me to read her letter and if I disapproved of its contents to destroy it. I didn't see any harm in that."

"You violated the rules of the prison and you could be punished for it by a term in that same prison."

"I'm a respectable woman—"

"That gets you nowhere. I was a respectable chief of police once—and now look at me. If your part in this leaks out you can only be punished—and you can't be convicted unless you talk in your sleep. If my part in this should leak out I'll be punished and disgraced and thrown out of the best job I've ever had. However—" he raised his glass to her—"mud in your eye, Lanny."

"Happy days, Dan, you gorgeous sooty."

The doorbell rang. Dan opened it and Doctor Burt stepped in. He paused in amazement at sight of Lanny, glass in hand; she motioned him with it down the hall. "First door at the end, Stevie. You'll find your patient there."

"That girl with the dissociated personality, Nance Belden, escaped from San Quentin late this afternoon, Chief," Stephen began, and handed the latter a newspaper. "Big story. First woman to escape from San Quentin." He gazed severely upon Lanny. "What are you doing here, Lanny?"

"All h— to pay, Stevie dear, and no pitch hot. That Belden girl is here with a bullet hole in her shoulder; she's suffering from shock and submersion and chill and loss of blood and she's cold as a penguin's tail. I've given her a stiff noggin of Dan's terrible booze and a fortieth of a grain of strychnin and an alcohol rub. She's sleeping. Did you bring those hot-water bottles?"

"Yes," he said humbly, indicating a bag he carried. Lanny fell upon the bag, and retired to the kitchen to fill the hotwater bottles and tuck them in alongside her child patient. "Lucky if she doesn't develop pneumonia, Stevie."

Doctor Burt stood looking down at the sleeping Nance. "Out of the warden's arms and straight into yours. You guessed she'd call on Lanny, eh. Dan, you're an old fox."

"No, Doc, I'm not. A fox has brains."

"He's a lamb, Stevie, just a big ram lamb."

While Lanny was assisting Doctor Burt in dressing Nance Belden's wound, Dan McNamara sat in his plain little living room and read the story of her escape from San Quentin. It appeared that throughout all of Sunday afternoon two men, in a motor boat, had been anchored in the cove off San Quentin apparently fishing for striped bass, which abound at this particular point in San Francisco bay. There were other boats anchored there also—eight in all. The guard at the entrance to the women's quarters had observed them, until, about four-thirty p. m., just before locking-up time a guard in one of the lookout towers on the hill had telephoned him that a boat had approached close to the shore.

The guard had thereupon stepped out of his kiosk and around to the rear of it, which faced toward the beach, less than thirty feet distant. He had shouted at the men in the boat and warned them to be off, that they were not permitted to approach that close, that they were within the deadline. To this the men replied that they couldn't help it; that their motor had gone dead and that the tide had set them in; that they were trying to make repairs and would be off as soon as they could.

While the guard was in the rear of his station, engaged in this conversation, Nance Belden had approached the gate, kicked off her shoes and, digging her toes into the quarter-inch wire mesh of the sixteen-foot gate, had scrambled to the top with incredible rapidity. She was just climbing down the outside of the gate when the guard in the tower on the hill saw her and immediately telephoned to the guard at the main gate; also to the guard arguing with the men in the motorboat. Upon hearing the telephone bell ringing in his station, that guard had walked into it; at the same time, keeping the kiosk between her and the approaching guard, Nance Belden had dashed down to the beach and commenced swimming rapidly toward the motorboat, the motor of which instantly started, and the boat commenced edging in to pick her up.

When the guard in the kiosk, apprised of what was taking place, ran out with a rifle in his hand and shouted to Nance Belden to come back or he would shoot her, a machine-gun in the motorboat promptly came into action against him. He had not been hit, but a shower of bullets had splattered the ground around and in front of him and another burst had gone over his head and through the sentry box. The guard had fired once at the Belden woman and hit her, but immediately thereafter, fearful of being killed, he had thrown himself flat on the ground.

The guard in the watch-tower on the hill had then brought his machine-gun into action. His first burst had been short, and drew answering fire from the machine gunner in the boat. Although the range was four hundred yards, the first burst from the motorboat tore through the wooden watch-tower, which rather distracted the aim of the guard there; nevertheless, the latter stuck to his gun and continued to fire, splattering bullets around the swimming girl and into the boat.

The men in the boat did not hesitate, but came on through the hail of bullets; the escaping prisoner had in the meanwhile either sunk or dived; at any rate a widening tinge of red appeared on the water. She was down about thirty seconds, then her head emerged close to the boat, and she swam with one arm to the side of it; a man reached over and grasped her under both arms and jerked her into the boat, which instantly turned, put on full speed and raced away close past two other boats. Fearful of killing innocent people, the guard in the watch-tower held his fire until the escaping boat was in the clear; then he and the guard in another tower came into action again. But a target moving at a speed of forty-five miles an hour is not easily hit; the fire was either over or short and the boat did not stop. When it was out of range, it turned, and in the rapidly fading light of the winter day, headed up into San Pablo bay, running close to the south shore to avoid the chop of the waves in this shallow expanse of water. They ran without lights.

While the course they had taken would seem to indicate a desire to run up Carquinez straits to the Sacramento or the San Joaquin rivers, land and escape in a waiting automobile into central California, the warden realized that his quarry was not lacking in intelligence; that, fast as they fled, they would realize that the telephone is faster; that the roar of their motor must betray them a mile away. He had, therefore, taken the precaution to notify the chiefs of police of Pittsburg, Martinez, Sausalito, Richmond, Berkeley, Oakland and San Francisco, leaving to these the task of notifying intermediate points. The warden had a suspicion the fugitives would double back to San Francisco—particularly since the girl was wounded and must be hidden in order to receive medical attention.

"And here she is," Dan McNamara muttered. "Cripes, what a woman! Lord, how I love a woman with brains and courage. Just a little simple matter of taking pains and taking risks. She didn't go in to the dining hall for dinner with the other prisoners. Smart! Knew she couldn't make a fast swim on a full stomach. Smart enough to notice the warden's oversight in failing to fill in with barbed wire topping that eighteen-inch space at the top of his gate. Of course they figured they needn't bother with that, because no woman could climb a sixteen-foot wire mesh fence anyhow, and if she did she'd only drop down into the waiting arms of the guard, who is never absent, night or day. But Nance Belden knew she could climb that fence barefoot; she knew she had thirty seconds to do it and a drop on the other side from the top of the gate. Her job was to induce the guard to turn his back—and her friends in the boat did that!"

"She knew she'd been seen from the watch-tower on the hill and the guard at the gates notified by telephone; as he returned from the edge of the beach, around the south side of his kiosk, Nance slipped by him on the north side and was in the water as the guard took up the 'phone. Smart! She knew no guard will stick under machine-gun fire at fifty yards, merely to stop a woman convict escaping from prison. Smart! Sank and swam under water—and then the zigzag course between the boats of the other fishermen, after they picked her up. Fine psychology—she engineered it all—and I know she's a nut! And then straight to Lanny for medical attention—straight to the one human being she knew she could trust—no, I'll not send her back. And I don't particularly want to catch her friends either. I'll say they're friends! Wish I had a couple of friends that'd come on through machine-gun fire for me! I had thought the world was selfish and cruel and thieving and lying—but there's nobility left in it after all."

Stephen Burt came out of the bedroom and sat down and stared at the chief of police with grave interest. "Well, my good Javert," he said presently.

"Your good what?"

"I called you Javert. Don't you know who Javert was?"

Dan McNamara shook his head. "I never picked him up, Doc."

"You wouldn't. He was a character in 'Les Misérables,' a novel by Victor Hugo. He was a fly-cop in Paris, and he pursued an ex-convict named Jean Valjean for twenty years, because he believed the man was a crook. Once a crook, always a crook, was Javert's philosophy. And when he discovered at last he had the goods on Jean Valjean and it was his duty to arrest him, he discovered simultaneously that Jean Valjean was also a good and noble man, which proved extremely embarrassing to Javert."

"I understand how that could be, all right, Doc. What did Javert do then?"

"He climbed up on the railing of a bridge over the Seine, unpinned his shield, threw it into the river and jumped in after it."

"He committed suicide in order to give his man the breaks."

"Exactly."

"Well," Dan McNamara decided after pondering this a half minute, "I wouldn't be boob enough to do that. He should have made a stool pigeon out of Jean Valjean and maybe he'd have gotten somewhere in his job."

Stephen smiled. He liked this heavy man, with the Celtic face as inscrutable as a Chinaman's. As a specialist in mental diseases he knew the part heredity plays in the formation of character, and one did not have to look at the chief twice to know that he came of courageous ancestry. No vague fears or anxieties in this fellow, Stephen thought. Courageous men are usually honest men; even when they are not honest they are sufficiently courageous to pay the price, no matter how high, for the things they do with their eyes open—to pay it cheerfully and refrain thereafter from whimpering.

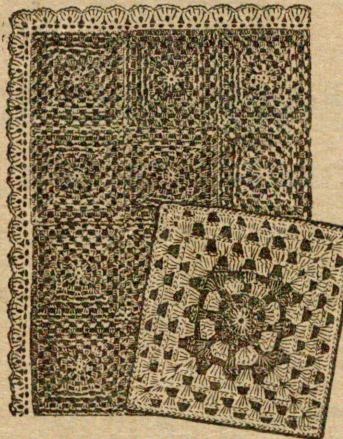

"So you're going to protect this girl, are you, Chief?"

Simple Motif in Bedspread Design

By GRANDMOTHER CLARK

Some needleworkers hesitate when it comes to crocheting a bedspread, because too much work and time is required to finish it. The design shown above is about the simplest pattern known and works up fast. This model is worked in cream, rose and yellow carpet warp and measures 4 1/4 inches for each square. Find the size spread you want to make and then figure how many squares it will take. You will be surprised how fast the work progresses if you spend only spare time on making the squares, and the little material required to take with you when not working at home. When the squares are finished slip-stitch together and finish with a simple edging. The squares may be set together point to point, thereby producing a pointed edge instead of straight.

This is one of the thirty motifs shown in book No. 27, all illustrated with instructions, and will be sent to you postpaid upon receipt of 15c.

The use of these motifs is not limited to spreads. By using different sizes of thread many attractive and useful articles can be crocheted.

Snakes Kill Each Other

In a battle between a cobra and a mamba in London both were severely bitten, the mamba being the first to succumb, and the cobra dying while trying to swallow its dead enemy, each falling victim to the other's venom.

Rays of Sun Important in Relation to Foods

Experiments recently carried out in Cleveland, Ohio, go to prove that animals derive their energy by the reradiation of the sun's rays on the food they eat. Dr. George Crile placed brain tissue in a flask and in total darkness a faint greenish glow was seen, which grew even brighter when the bottle was shaken. By the use of very delicate instruments it was proved that these radiations are produced in different wave lengths, and that the addition of certain drugs increased or decreased the luminescence at will. Doctor Crile, who has studied from a scientific standpoint the behavior of thousands of animals, says that the thyroid and adrenal glands differ in size, according to the needs of their owners. Thus, lions and tigers possess large glands, which give them the energy they need so often at a moment's notice, but these glands are much smaller in alligators and crocodiles, whose habits are mostly slow and sluggish. It has been established that the thyroid glands in the case of man are larger than the adrenal glands in animals because there is a much greater need for sustained energy over long periods.—London Tit-Bits.

Electricity Waste

Radio stations unavoidably "waste" an incredible amount of electricity because less than two one-thousandths of 1 per cent of the power leaving their antennas is ever used. The average station has to send out constantly more than 50,000 times as much energy as its listeners could possibly consume if all of them had their sets turned on during all the hours of its broadcasting.—Collier's Weekly.

There is a thing called yesterday, but that is only the dust-bin at the door, into which we cast our refuse, our failures, our worn-out souls. The preparatory class for those desiring to unite with the church on Easter Sunday, will be held each Monday afternoon from 4 to 5. This is a part of any intelligent church school program, and our teachers are asked to be pupil centered in urging the pupils of their classes to enter this confirmation class, where definite instruction, preparatory to church membership will be given. Parents are urged to co-operate in this movement.
We have also planned the definite periods of special religious emphasis for adults. Throughout Lent, there will be a service every Wednesday evening at eight o'clock. Some of these Wednesday evenings addresses will be given by well qualified outside speakers. This is done in the belief that there is a deepened attention to a new voice. If the members of our church will cooperate in the Lenten and Holy Week services, the church will be awakened and stirred to a deeper religious interest, enabling it to enlarge its mission in the individual new clarity of religious thinking, new light on his religious problems, and interpret Jesus to him as a friend and teacher and so, ultimately, as a Guide and Saviour.
